Good Morning!

Eager to see what willowpond.biz was all about, all I could raise on the web were farms and B&B's.

So I called Pat, who had the same experience. He then checked again and found that the correct address is www.willowponds.biz

Now that'll do it! In today's Vancouver Sun, there is also an extensive article about real estate and communities in France. Those communities are also very attractive, pedestrian-friendly, culturally rich and diverse as well as interesting to walk around.

I'm not sure how it is that we have allowed ourselves to depend so much on having a Macdonalds, an A&W, a Winners, a Subway and a gas station on every corner. Those are not the components of a 'liveable' community. Is it any wonder we're not interested in going for a walk? Not everyone can climb mountains, beautiful though they are.

Cheers,

Liz
