Dear Councillor Crist: Here is another one for the Mountain Bike files. It is only a matter of time before someone sues in North Vancouver. Cypress, Kamloops and Burnaby Mountain have and are removing dangerous and illegal structures and closing down illegal mountain bike trails. Delta Watershed Park is the newest chapter of an ongoing saga of liability issues. They may need a place to ride, but it doesn't have to be all over the forests, and definitely NOT in Mountain View Park.

Re: Removal of Watershed Park Mountain Bike Apparatus

Watershed Park is a public park and, like all other public lands, requires the permission of the provincial government. Municipal approval requires a legal entity, such as society or agency, to come forward with a request. Last week a user of this apparatus was injured on an apparently booby-trapped device. The

Dear Mr. Levine:

It is about time that someone takes charge of the situation in regards to illegal bike structures being built. I live in North Vancouver, and wish our own authorities would do the same, as these mountain bike people have just about taken over our neighbourhood in their determination to ride on Fromme Mountain. It is a mess up there with veins of illegal trails and structures. It is not safe to hike there anymore without carrying a big stick for protection. Broken glass on the hiking trails keeps us from taking our dogs for a walk. These people do not need our forests to ride in, as this sport is really dirtbike and stunt geared, and structures could be built anywhere outside of our forests to ride. These people do not need our watersheds, forests, and other wild places, just a stunt and amusement park that could be constructed any where. I admire your stand in ridding the Delta Watershed of illegal and dangerous structures. This is a rogue sport which has gotten out of control and needs rules, enforcement and containment. Good Luck. Don't let the propaganda of this sport deter your efforts.
