Hello is anybody Home?

Once again the phrase improper conduct is used by the Clerk. But the use of the word "hoax" is not an improper conduct. This is the crux of the issue and is one which they are desperately trying to burry. Did anybody ask why the motion was not printed?. Did anybody ask why it was not read out during the meeting like other motions? Any ideas or explanations?

Question - why are chickens called stupid - it is because they continue to fly against the same solid wall even though every time they get a headache.

See you around.

Subject: Authority of Chair

Jim:

In response to your question re Community Charter authority to expel persons from meeting for improper conduct, this will confirm my advice that this same authority was previously provided in the Local Government Act (Section 242.5 "Expulsion from meeting for improper conduct". The wording is essentially the same, but the Community Charter added a phrase authorizing a peace officer to enforce the order if the person who is expelled doesn't leave the meeting.
