Dear Corrie Kost:

Generally, when Council "receives" a report, it means that it is just receiving it for information purposes. Depending on the nature of the report, Council reports may either be received in the weekly Information Package or listed on a Council Agenda.

If the report is listed on a Council agenda, then there is an opportunity for Council questions and discussion.

Subject: Clarification of "Receive" or "Receive for Information" a report

Dear Agnes Hilsen,

Could you provide some clarity what it means when council "receives" a report or "receives a report for information"?

Specifically, in each case, does it mean that council endorses the information in the report?
I/We need to know the significance of "receipt" vs approval as well as implications of "receiving for information".

Yours truly,

Corrie Kost
